

REPARATIONS AND REPUDIATIONS

That public men publish falsehoods
Is nothing new. That America must accept
Like the historical republics corruption and empire
Has been known for years.

Be angry at the sun for setting
If these things anger you. Watch the wheel slope and turn,
They are all bound on the wheel, these people,
those warriors,
This republic, Europe, Asia...

--Robinson Jeffers, Be Angry at the Sun

In a recent article about our present disharmony, Pat Buchanan reminded us of the original revolutionary acts of the 1776 overthrow of Britain rule, when George Washington's troops decapitated the statue of King George III in Philadelphia and had the remains melted down and made into musket balls... He further observed that,

"During the recent demonstrations and disorders here, similar acts had about them an aspect of societal rebellion and a repudiation of a heritage."

This is in fact what is at the heart of this societal chaos, this wave that's been long travelling over the open seas, gaining strength and speed. It now has crashed upon our shores. Succinctly phrased, it is a repudiation of our heritage.

If I may, I'd like to profile a recent and most excellent missive by Tucker Carlson of Fox news. While I'm not a "Fox News watcher," nor a fanboy of Tucker's, nevertheless—credit where credit due. He sees what so many others in Christendom fail to see and have been blinded now for generations as to what the end game of the leftists and the statist (in and outside the "church") always was.

Please watch the short presentation.

First Caveat: Tucker is not coming from a Christian point of view. Some of his ideas are antithetical to Christ and His Kingdom. His notion that America was built on “tolerance” is false. The colonists and early settlers were here precisely because THEY were not tolerated by the institutionalized ‘churchian’ religion of European states, and the colonists were both refugees from that war and pioneers in establishing a new society based upon God’s Law and the principles of Christ—and ONLY those principles. And those first American settlers were most certainly NOT tolerant of opposing culture and religion (proof of that is easily found by merely reading the original colony constitutions). They came to build a strictly CHRISTIAN society, and did, but failed to hold it.

Tucker also is wrong that the ‘Repubs,’ or that voting a new batch in, or replacing them with some “libertarian candidates” are going to save the Union. There is not, nor ever was any hope in that fantasy. The US Constitution and the government it established was nothing less than a COUP D’ÉTAT against the former remnants of a Christian nation and we are ever reaping the rotten fruit of that. (Look around you). As Lysander Spooner so aptly said 200 years ago, “But whether the Constitution really be one thing, or another, this much is certain - that it has either authorized such a government as we have had, or has been powerless to prevent it. In either case it is unfit to exist.”

Moreover, we don’t have a Union. That the first Civil War was fought to preserve such an entity has now been proven beyond all doubt for the Lie that it was.

Finally, and most notably, Tucker erroneously declares that “sin cannot be inherited,” which of course is exactly the opposite of Christian doctrine. But, to be fair, he’s probably not speaking of a “sin nature” and doesn’t mean it in that way, but is clumsily (and unwittingly) stating the obvious—in agreement with the Bible—that is...

The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers: every man shall be put to death for his own sin. (Deut 24:16)

Nevertheless, he rightly sees the culture very rapidly devolving (though he’s unsure why). To be clear though, “black slavery” was not our collective sin. Slavery in itself is NOT sin (read all references in the Bible for clarity on that). Moreover, the African slave trade was started by Africans themselves through their inter-tribal wars in the early 1600’s. The descendants of those slaves are here only because they were sold into slavery by their own people. Yet none of those blacks today would argue that life in Africa (or any other former slave colonies, like Haiti) is superior to life in America. They would not go back to their ‘homelands’ if we paid them a great sum to do so. And no one would blame them for that.

Tucker is right—this is not a racial problem we are facing (we do have that problem and will have to deal with it). But this looming crisis is the result of decades of programming of our mostly White society—starting very early with the children—to eliminate Christian societal values and replace them with Marxist, anti-christ values. They have largely succeeded and the battle is almost won. Blood hasn't begun to flow yet, but it will. Much freedoms and property and wealth yet remains to be lost before this is over.

Meanwhile, we will have a fight on our hands. It is as much an intellectual battle as it is physical. The ignorance of history, magnified by our abject ignorance of Christian doctrine—particularly in modern America—has led to such nonsense as this, from the media organ calling themselves Christianity Today. Herein we see an asserted cannon of faith from a self-proclaimed authority of the Gospel that 'racism and slavery are America's original sins' and they must be atoned for... "Repentance is not enough", the author declares.

Of course not, because it's not warranted in this case.

Here again, we are being gaslighted by snakes in the grass...wolves among the flock. We'd better learn FAST how to defend against this rhetoric! Let's be clear: there is nothing that whites—as a race—need to apologize for. And I use that term loosely as it is very hard to pin down a definition of race. But whites have not collectively enslaved or oppressed any other race any more than they've done it to their own, or than other races have enslaved or oppressed each other. No people-group is entirely innocent of these sins—in so much as they are indeed sins. But American blacks, especially, have much to be grateful for in the quality of life they enjoy here—far more and abundant than their ancestors did, and the vast majority of their kin still do in the Old Country.

Much of the reason places like Haiti, and Africa and Latin America are stagnant, or regressing, is because property rights are not acknowledged or respected. And this is precisely the trend we are seeing now in this "exceptional nation". Observe the pattern...

To the point: The churchians and antifa and the narcopaths in both Houses of Congress are WRONG. Collective reparations are not justice. As the notorious meme goes, "I didn't own no slaves, and you didn't pick no cotton" (again, see Deut 24:16). But even if that were the case, it doesn't make it automatically wrong. Once again, slavery, in and of itself, is NOT sin. This may rub many the wrong way (I speak from experience), but it's only due to their own ignorance of the subject and the emotional "triggers" implanted by the collectivist education they were subject to their whole lives. I'm not at fault for speaking the truth. But, as always, don't take my word for it, be a Berean.

We've lost our way and are floundering in the darkness. And I've got terrible news for the patriots and other hangers-on... America, as a 'nation', will not survive intact. At the least, there will be a balkanization of the country—in your lifetime. Borders will change and people-groups will migrate. External and internal wars will be fought. The Empire and its economy will collapse. It is already underway. Bury your head in the sand if you like, and ignore history's trends, or the consequences of compounded actions over time, or the very nature of mankind... Be angry at the sun for setting, if you wish. But we will witness the future nonetheless, and some of us will live through it to seed the emerging generations—preferably with the Word of God in their minds.

In the foreseeable future, heritage Americans who wish to survive and flourish in some semblance of a Western/Christian civilization had BETTER 'seek the old paths' of THEIR ancestors, NOT those of the Africans, or Arabs, or Mestizo Mexicans. They had better return to the God of their fathers and learn again to OBEY His commandments, statutes and judgments and to unwaveringly teach their children as well. Tolerance of "diverse" cultures and belief systems has failed us, as it always does and always will. If we will not be INTOLERANT of godless society, godless government and godless people, we will be crushed by them, "cast out and tread down." Remember that Christ did not give us the option of "going along to get along" in society...

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men. (Matt 5:13)

He gave us a strict Command in fact...

And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, ALL power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, and teach ALL nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe ALL things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen. (Matt 28:18-20)

But Did Jesus leave any power left for African kangz, or for Mayan kings, or Constitutional governments, or 'Supreme Courts'? None. All of them, then and now, were to obey HIS Law, and to honor Christ as King alone. And His servants were given their marching orders at that time, shortly after His resurrection, to "go and teach them"... that God "now commanded ALL men, everywhere to repent" (Acts 17:30).

Western society truly began BECAUSE of this mandate. European whites brought the Christian religion and way of life to every continent and nationality. Civilization today—everywhere it is to be found at all—is because of this mandate of Christ, and ONLY because it was obeyed to even the most meager extent that it was in times past. The early Christians knew, even while living in first century Rome under great oppression, that they would prevail as Jesus promised them, IF they endured to the end... Thus Jerusalem fell. Rome eventually fell. One by one, they all will. God's ancient and future promise was upheld to those who were faithful to His Word:

And ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the Lord of hosts. (Mal 4:3)

Occidental man today, be they in the Old Countries of Europe, or the New; here in North America and Australia, or South Africa, or wherever the remnant of a Christian society can be found, stand at a crossroads. Somebody will be tread down... either them, or us... Either the wicked, or the spineless, salt-less, Christians-in-name-only. Like the Israelites of old, when faced with a similar crisis and the armies of Babylon threatened to overcome them and take them into slavery (they eventually did), we have the same question posed to us as did they through the prophet Jeremiah:

Thus saith the Lord, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls. But they said, We will not walk therein. (Jer 6:16)

Our chance will come too. And our day will surely come as did theirs. And if we choose wrongly, we will surely share their same fate.
